CONTRACT IS LET FOR POST LIGHTS

CITY PREPARES TO FIGHT RATE BOOST

Bid of $9,890 Filed by W. C. Bevins & Co. For System Complete is Accepted by Council.

FOUR PROPOSALS SUBMITTED

Contract is Awarded Upon Condition That Bonds Will Be Approved by the State Tax Board.

The bid of $9,890 filed by W. C. Bevins & Co., of this city, for the complete installation and equipment of an electric post lighting system on seven blocks in the business district was accepted by the city council Wednesday night, following an examination of proposals submitted by four electrical concerns. The award was made upon the condition that the Indiana state board of tax commissioners approve the bond issue which will be necessary to meet the cost of the improvement. Steps to have the board approve the bonds will be taken immediately so there will be no delay in installing the lighting system.

The bids were read during the open session, but were considered later in the evening with only the councilmen and the members of the special committee of the chamber of commerce present. After the bids were examined the various representatives were called before the councilmen to explain features of their proposals which were not entirely clear. The members realized that the terms of the specifications were largely technical and recognized the importance of buying the best materials possible so that repair expense would be reduced to a minimum.

When the bids were first read it appeared that there was a wide difference in the figures, but when the various items were considered the councilmen reached the conclusion that the bids were almost the same.

The first bid opened was that of the Kimbrough Company, St. Louis, which was for $10,000. An addition of $50 was added for the fancy

PROMINENT BROWNSTOWN MAN DIES AT MADISON HOSPITAL

Charles A. Robertson Succumbs After Long Illness—Was Associated With Ewing Mill Co.

Charles A. Robertson, a prominent Brownstown man, died at the Southeastern Hospital at Madison early this morning where he had been a patient for the past month. The remains were taken to Brownstown this afternoon and the funeral services will be held some time Saturday. The deceased was seventy-two years old.

Mr. Robertson for many years was associated with his brother, Jonathan Robertson, in the Ewing Mill Company and was well known throughout the western part of Jackson county. He was taken ill several years ago, from which he never fully recovered. His condition became serious a month ago and it was necessary that he be taken to the Madison institution for treatment.

The deceased's wife preceded him to the grave about twenty years ago. He is survived by four sons, Ted Robertson, of Newport, Ky., Dungan Robertson, of Martinsville, Ind., C. O. and Roscoe M. Robertson, of Brownstown, two daughters, Mrs. Van Robertson, with whom he made his home, and Mrs. Harry M. Shields, of Brownstown, five brothers, Jonathan, E. F. and R. L. Robertson, all of Brownstown, Willard Robertson, of Indianapolis, and Bruce Robertson, of Cortland, several grandchildren, other relatives and a large circle of friends. Council Takes Steps to Resist Petition of Seymour Mutual Telephone Co. for New Schedule.

ENGINEER WILL BE EMPLOYED

Committee of Five Appointed to Investigate Expert Services That Will be Required.

That the city council will not permit the increased rates recently ordered into effect by the Seymour Mutual Telephone Company to stand without strong resistance, was evidenced at the regular session of the council Wednesday night when a committee of five was named to investigate the expert services which will be needed to fight the case. The company has filed a petition with the Indiana public service commission asking for an adjustment of local telephone rates. On July 1 the company instituted new rates while it was operating under the supervision of the federal wire administration.

The matter was brought to the attention of the councilmen by Mayor Burkart who stated that he received a letter from the federal wire administration stating that higher rates had not been ordered here. He said that L. C. Griffitts, president of the local company, had stated that the rates were instituted at the verbal instructions of representatives of the administration.

Mayor Burkart stated that the petition filed by the company with the state commission last October would soon be set down for hearing. Neither Harry Findley, city clerk, nor John M. Lewis, city attorney, had been advised as to the exact date for the hearing. Mr. Lewis said that the commission would give ample time to the city to prepare its defense but recommended that inasmuch as the council was aware that the case is pending that action be taken at once to secure the necessary expert assistance needed to wage a strong defense.

The Mayor recommended that a committee be appointed to look into the matter of securing competent services to aid the city and that this committee report to the council. On motion of Ireland the mayor was empowered to appoint such a committee, to include the Mayor and the city attorney. Other members named were Ireland, Collins and Emery. Mayor Burkart is now in communication with several telephone engineers relative to the conduct of the defense to be waged by the city.

It is expected that the case will be set down for hearing early in the fall as the petition is one of the first to be considered by the commission.

TWO MEN ARRESTED AS A RESULT OF FIGHT

Herbert Harper is Alleged to Have Struck Roy C. Davis Over Eye—Trial Friday Morning.

Herbert Harper and Roy C. Davis were arrested by the police today following a fight near the corner of Tipton and Pine streets at noon today. Harper is charged with assault and battery and Davis was arrested on a provoke charge.

The fight is said to have resulted following a quarrel between the two men. Davis has a deep gash wound over his left eye where he alleges Harper hit him. Mrs. William Williams, a relative of Harper, was the only witness to the affray and it was stated at the police station that she fainted and fell to the ground upon seeing the blood stream from the wound on Davis' head.

The case has been set for trial before Mayor Burkart in city court Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

SEWERAGE SYSTEM IS RECOMMENDED

Clark B. Davis Urges Council to Give Immediate Attention to Drainage Facilities.

THIRD STREET REMONSTRANCE

Preliminary Resolution Adopted Ordering Improvement of the Hustedt Alley.

C. B. Davis, representing the chamber of commerce, appeared before the city council last night and recommended that the members give early consideration to the construction of an adequate sewerage system for sanitary as well as surface drainage. He explained that at a recent meeting of the Chamber the members had voted in favor of an improved sewerage system in Seymour and that he represented the committee appointed to bring the matter before the council.

Mr. Davis pointed out that the future welfare of the city depended largely upon the construction of a new sewerage system inasmuch as certain sections of the city were without adequate sanitary and surface drainage. In many places the present sewers are now low enough to permit cellar drainage and even in

HEADS OF LABOR UNIONS CONFER

Important Session of Executive Council of American Federation of Labor Today.

MORE THREATS OF STRIKES

Glenn Plumb Presents Anew His Plan For Nationalization of American Railroads.

By United Press Washington, August 28—Holding in its hands the delicate balance of the economic and industrial future of the country, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor met in extraordinary session here today.

Among leaders, drawn here by disputes in their trades, or attracted by the important meeting of the council, belief was expressed that Presidents of all various unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. might be summoned before final action is taken on the big pending problems.

While immediate action is expected on the steel and railroad situations they believe the rank and file may be consulted before steps are taken on the broader questions of future policy.

The threat of strike of the union employees of the United States Steel Corporation and the demands of the railroad shopmen will be given first consideration by the council.

The stand of President Wilson against further wage increases, in replying to the demands of the shopmen, is a tremendous factor in the situation.

The leaders of the shipmen are confident their men are ready to strike for the increased demand. They are not certain, however, that public sentiment would approve the strike, in view of the president's appeal.

Opposed to this appeal is the unrest in the rank and file of labor.

WILSON TO SPEAK IN INDIANAPOLIS

President to Deliver Second Address
Peace Treaty Campaign at Indiana Capital.

FIRST STOP AT COLUMBUS, O.

Large Force of Secret Service Men to Accompany Presidential Party on Long Trip.

By United Press Washington, Aug. 28—President Wilson will start his tour of the country for the peace treaty and league of nations next Wednesday, September 3, it was announced at the White House today. His first stop will be at Columbus, O. The first stop after Columbus will be Indianapolis. Those accompanying the President will be Mrs. Wilson, Admiral Grayson, the president's personal physician, Secretary Tumulty, Gilbert Close, the president's stenographer, and other officials. A large force of secret service men will also go.

Cities tentatively included in the itinerary are Helena, Billings, Bismarck, Cincinnati, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Reno, Los Angeles and Atlanta. A speech at San Francisco is assured.

Meantime senators opposing the league of nations were trying to perfect arrangements for sending speakers from coast to coast to offset the president's tour.

The foreign relations committee today was to hear Charles Sumner Williams, representing negro Americans, who wish to present their views on the disposition of Germany's African colonies.

The president will reach the Pacific coast in mid September. Immediately following announcement of the beginning of the tour his senatorial opponents began plans for speakers to follow the president to present the opposition side of the treaty.

In addition to speeches by senators who may go on tour there will be daily senate speeches on the treaty which it is hoped will be out of foreign relations committee and before the senate at about the time the president leaves Washington. Thus, the president will be carrying on a long distanced debate with his opponents.

The argument the president is expected to carry to the country has already been made in addresses to the senate and in his conferences with the foreign relations committee at the White House.

WILL OF THE LATE ANDREW CARNEGIE FILED FOR PROBATE

Document Contains Many Bequests to Relatives and Friends—Gifts to Charity.

By United Press New York, August 28—The will of Andrew Carnegie filed for probate on noon today disposes of an estate estimated to be worth between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000. The will leaves Carnegie's real estate, works of art and household goods to his widow. The sum of $200,000 is left to the University of Pittsburgh. In a statement issued simultaneously with the signing of the will Carnegie's attorneys said that during his life time he made gifts to charity aggregating $350,000,000.

Financial provision for Mrs. Carnegie and daughter, Mrs. Roswell Miller, was made during Carnegie's life time. The fourth article of the will contains many legacies among which are bequests to charitable institutions.

Bequests provided for relatives and friends. Among the latter are annuities of $10,000 each to William Howard Taft and David Lloyd George and annuities of $5,000 each to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

Beating Down Living Costs.

By United Press Washington, August 28—President Wilson today asked congress to appropriate $825,000 immediately for the expenses of the American peace commission in Paris. At the same time he submitted a partial report on expenditures which showed the actual and estimated cost of America's part in peace making is $1,506,776.63.

The public does not extend the same degree of sympathy to strikes that it once did. This is an age of service, of co-operation. Right at this time the government is striving to combat the evils of profiteering and hoarding in order to lower living costs. Its efforts will be futile unless the co-operation of the public is given. Strikes in any line of endeavor work to the detriment of the masses. Everyone is facing difficulties now. But this is a time for concerted action.

globe, mentioned in the specifications, but the councilmen and the members of the light committee agreed that the plain globe would not only be more economical but more attractive.

The bid of the W. C. Bevins Company, Seymour of $9,890 was the second bid opened.

The third was that of the Carter Electric Company, Kokomo, for $8,704.34.

The bid of the Universal Electric

Co., Indianapolis, for $8,243 was the fourth bid opened.

An examination of the bids showed that the last two named bidders did not include the electric light globes nor the decorative painting of the posts. The globes, it was stated, would cost about $3 each. The two lowest bids did not provide for the installation of a transformer or compensator so that either 400 or 600 candle power lamps could be used as desired by the council. This equipment would be additional, the representatives stated. There was a difference of opinion as to the quality of underground cable provided for in the various bids, and it was stated that this would make a wide difference in the original cost, but that maintenance expense would be greater if an inferior quality of cable were used.

Each bidder was called before the council to explain his proposal. Practically all bidders were accompanied by representatives of wire and cable manufacturing companies who were interested in the sale of their special brands.

After all the bids were considered carefully the proposal of W. C. Bevins and Co. was accepted by unanimous vote upon the motion of Goodale, W. L. Clark, a member of the firm, stated that his bid included a strict guarantee of the system for one year.

He said his company proposed to replace globes which burned out during the year's period of guarantee.

The advantages of having the work done by a local contractor were patent to the council inasmuch as certain repair work will be necessary from time to time and a local firm would be on the ground to do this at less expense than if an outside contractor had to send men here to look after the repairs and adjustments.

It is explained that the bonds for the cost of the improvement will have to be approved by the state board of tax commissioners before the award can be formally made.

This condition was explained by John M. Lewis, city attorney, before the bids were opened. The matter will be taken up with the state board at once.

Mr. Clark thought that he would have the system installed and in operation within thirty days after the materials arrive.

As soon as the contract is formally entered into between the successful bidder and

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BEDBUGS. Just think, a package of two, the golden chemical P.D.Q. (Pesty Devil's Quinine) is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bedbugs no matter how large they may be or where they came from, their size, color or sex, and at the same leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 35c package makes a quart of P.D.Q., and will go farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for, then you'll have what doctors prescribe.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS. It's fun to see the fleas drop off your pet dog.

KILLS CHICKEN LICE. No use for your chickens to have lice. A 35c package mixed makes a gallon of chicken lice killer.

Your druggist has it, or can get it for you.

REUNION IS HELD BY TWENTY-SECOND

ice of the soldiers who saved the nation at that critical period.

At the afternoon session Mr. Davis was re-elected president and Mr. Wright was chosen secretary for another year. At the invitation of Charles Murphy upon behalf of Ellsworth Post, the Regiment voted unanimously to hold their reunion next year in this city. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Murphy and Andy Smith for their efforts to make the reunion a success. Mr. Murphy was delegated to look after the arrangements for the reunion next year.

Following the regular business session of the morning, William R. Fall, of North Vernon, delivered an informal address in which he said that every member of the Twenty-second regiment ought to feel proud of his affiliation during the war.

He recalled that the casualties of the regiment at Perryville alone were fifty per cent. and compared that record to the heavy fighting in the Argonne region in France where, he said, the losses were eighteen per cent.

He said it was not his desire to take away any of the honor and credit belonging to the American youths who fought during the World War, but pointed out that the conditions surrounding the army in '61 were vastly different from those of the present.

He spoke of the difficulty in securing sufficient food to sustain life and of the heavy losses from sickness and disease during the Civil War.

The losses during the World War from all causes, he said, were two per cent. while in the Civil War they were ten per cent.

Mr. Fall said that his idea of a reunion was for the men to talk over the experiences of the war.

He paid a tribute to his companions who did not return from the south "who did not grow old as we have grown old, but who are lying in the hallowed fields of the southland."

The roll call at the morning session was one of the interesting features of the annual meeting.

Each name is called by the secretary and if the member is not present some friend tells something about him, if such information is available.

Among those attending the reunion of their regiment were: W. H. Davis, Indianapolis, president; J. R. Wright, Indianapolis, secretary; William R. Fall, North Vernon; T. W. Sample, Nabbs; Henry Poppelaus, Waymanskville; John A. Lloyd, Shelbyville; William A. Jones, Columbus; J. H. Callcott, Indianapolis; Andy Smith, Seymour; Jasper Ross, Gary; Anderson Baker, Austin; David W. Sage, Crothersville;

A HOT SPOT Chalmers is a Tonic for Your Nerves

WHEN things go wrong, and the sun refuses to shine, and your nerves wear through to the surface get out in a present day Chalmers—and experience the joy of perfect motion, of an alert "piece of steel."

No grinding noises, no "coughing" of carburetor, no backfires, no sound of friction, no vibration—nothing but sweet, silent motion beneath you!

Picture in your mind the old car that raced from gear to gear as it got under way, the whine, the creaks—and then the rasping, the twitching, the quiverings when you set the brakes.

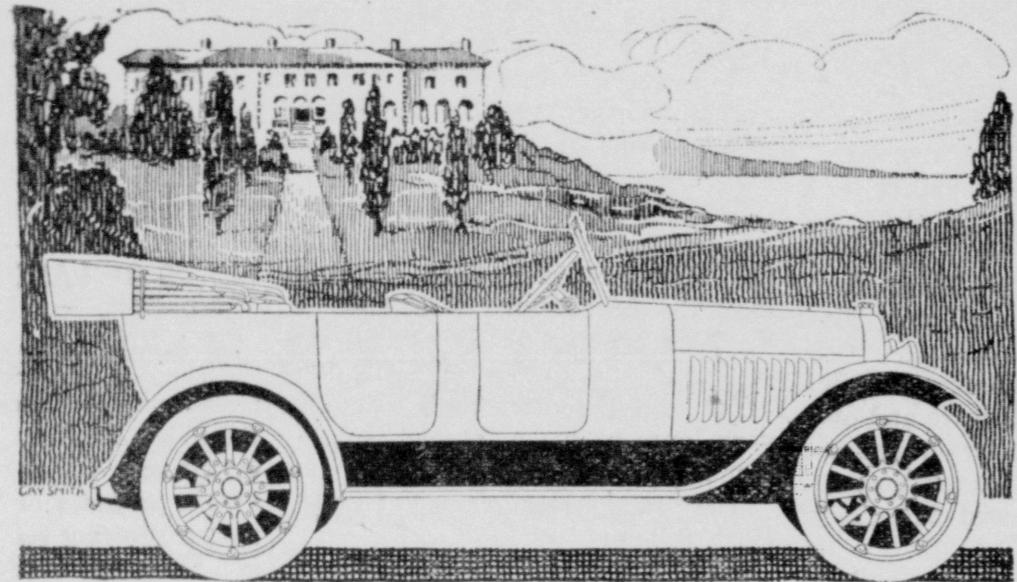

Now your nerves can "go to sleep" in a Chalmers, for Hot Spot and Ram's-horn have "pulverized" gas and given it to the engine so well prepared for power that vibration becomes a thing of the past.

And with vibration out go those thousand and one things that disturb your ears and irritate your nerves.

One ride on this present day Chalmers will mark for you a New Epoch in Motoring, whether you drive two blocks or 200 miles.

WOOD IS BIG ITEM IN COST OF LIVING

Soaring Costs of Crates and Boxes
Enter Largely Into Retail Price of Foodstuffs.

PAPER IS ALSO SOARING

Charles Lathrop Pack Explains Necessity for Conservation of Forests in U. S.

(By Charles Lathrop Pack, President American Forestry Association.)

Washington, August 27—In figuring out your monthly grocery bills you find "that things have gone up" and in any mental battle with the high cost of living you almost always confine your struggle to food. Go back of food a step and you will find many things that increase the cost of the food you eat, although you cannot eat those things. The chief item of the list is wood.

In fact, wood is one of the chief reasons for the high cost of living and the American Forestry Association calls attention to this with some startling figures. For example the box in which your berries or peaches are displayed at market costs about three times what it did in "the good old days." The barrel in which your flour found its way to the grocer has gone up in price. The paper in which your meat is wrapped is "away up." None of these things can be put through your digestive apparatus with any degree of success but the consumer pays his share in the price of the berries, the flour, the peaches or the meat.

There is scarcely a commodity that is not shipped or handled in wood container of some sort. To say nothing of home consumption, the United States was exporting about three and a half billion board feet of lumber every year before the war.

Then the war called for wood. It went into temporary structures of every description such as camps, hospitals, recreation huts, and the like. We must come up with a sharp turn on the lumber question. A national forest policy must be adopted in this country or we face economic suicide. The American Forestry Association asks for the views of the lumbermen, timberland owners and foresters on this greatest of our reconstruction problems in order that a definite policy may be arrived at.

We have just fought and won the fight to save us from imperial aggression, but the fight to save us from economic ruin is just ahead of us. Are we going to let the sacrifice of our heroes go for naught? What of the future in an economic sense? The situation is just this:

The original forest area of the United States was eight hundred and fifty million acres.

There now remains in virgin timber about two hundred and thirty million acres, or one fourth of the original.

Our total acreage of forest and cut over lands is about five hundred million acres. One hundred million acres of this is waste land which produces nothing and one hundred and eighty million acres more contain more or less second growth. A large percentage of this second growth timber is inferior quality.

The new growth of timber is not more than one third of the amount which is being used or destroyed every year.

There is plenty of food in that last paragraph but it is food for thought. What of our home building program when we realize that the center of our lumber industry is fast moving to the Pacific Coast? What of our home building program when we realize that New England is no longer self supporting in lumber and that the lake states, once our greatest producers of lumber, are now importers of it from other states? This means long hauls and high freight rates which the home builder must pay. The time to build a home is now for without a national forest policy I do not believe cheaper lumber can be predicted.

The forest of France, millions of acres of which are now in ruins, kept the Hun from reaching Paris. Other vast acreages had to be cut down for war purposes. Civilization can thank France for having a forest policy of more than hundred years standing. Her forests answered the call of war when war came. Had the war come fifteen years later we would have been pressed to meet the lumber program. Let us heed the call of the forests before it is too late.

Mrs. O. M. Allen has returned to Butlerville after a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. C. W. Randall.

the business district some basements cannot be used advantageously. He said he understood that sewerage projects in practically every ward in the city are being considered and that the total cost would be in the neighborhood of $25,000 to $28,000. He recommended that instead of making local sewers which would be of only temporary and local benefit that the money be used to meet the cost of an entirely new system constructed to meet the requirements of the entire city. He realized, he said, that such a project would entail much expense, but that the city is facing this problem and that the chamber of commerce believes the most economical and satisfactory way to solve it is to build a new system. He recommended that the city employ a sewerage expert to prepare a survey of the streets and alleys with the view of locating the tile so they would be of the most service.

As the sewerage projects were not brought before the council, no action was taken on Mr. Davis' recommendation, although several councilmen expressed the belief that a new system ought to be constructed in the near future.

A remonstrance against the proposed improvement of Third street between Chestnut and Walnut streets was filed. As the meeting was not the time for receiving remonstrances to this improvement the objections were deferred.

The committee appointed to investigate the need of certain equipment for the fire department was granted further time, but was empowered to act without further sanction of the council.

A resolution ordering the improvement of the alley between Indianapolis Avenue and Ewing street between Second and Third street, known as the Hustedt alley was introduced by Goodale and was adopted.

A few minor repairs were ordered by the councilmen but the regular business of the meeting was eliminated so that time could be given to the consideration of the bids for the postlighting system. The following claims were allowed:

INDIGESTION Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10 suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—bloating, heartburn, bloating after eating, food relishes, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are nevertheless, traceable to an acid stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, anemia, loss of blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long list of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack the ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it possible.

"Thousands of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC write: 'I have been troubled with intestinal indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the right thing for me.'"

We receive thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC. Get a big box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

Simple Home Remedy

Anyone Can Make a Pint For Trifling Sum and Used In Time May Prevent
Annual Attack

"No matter how severe your yearly attack be,
No matter how distressing or humiliating—
Its intensity can be reduced to a harmless, mildness," says a Kentucky druggist who believes from what he has seen that this simple home made remedy is a most important discovery.

He has seen the most severe and apparently unconquerable cases reduced to what might be called a mild cold in twenty-four hours.

In many cases where the patient started treatment a week or ten days before the expected attack failed to appear with anything like its usual intensity.

People who want to try this new treatment can make a pint in a few minutes.

Pour one ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled. Gargle daily as directed and snuff or spray the nostrils twice daily.

That's all there is to the treatment which so many sufferers have found to be a true friend.

Mentholized Arcine in one ounce packages is dispensed by all the better pharmacies.

Brunswick Principles In Fine Tire Making

The reason you are interested in the name on your tire is that it identifies the maker. By knowing the maker you can judge his ideals of manufacture.

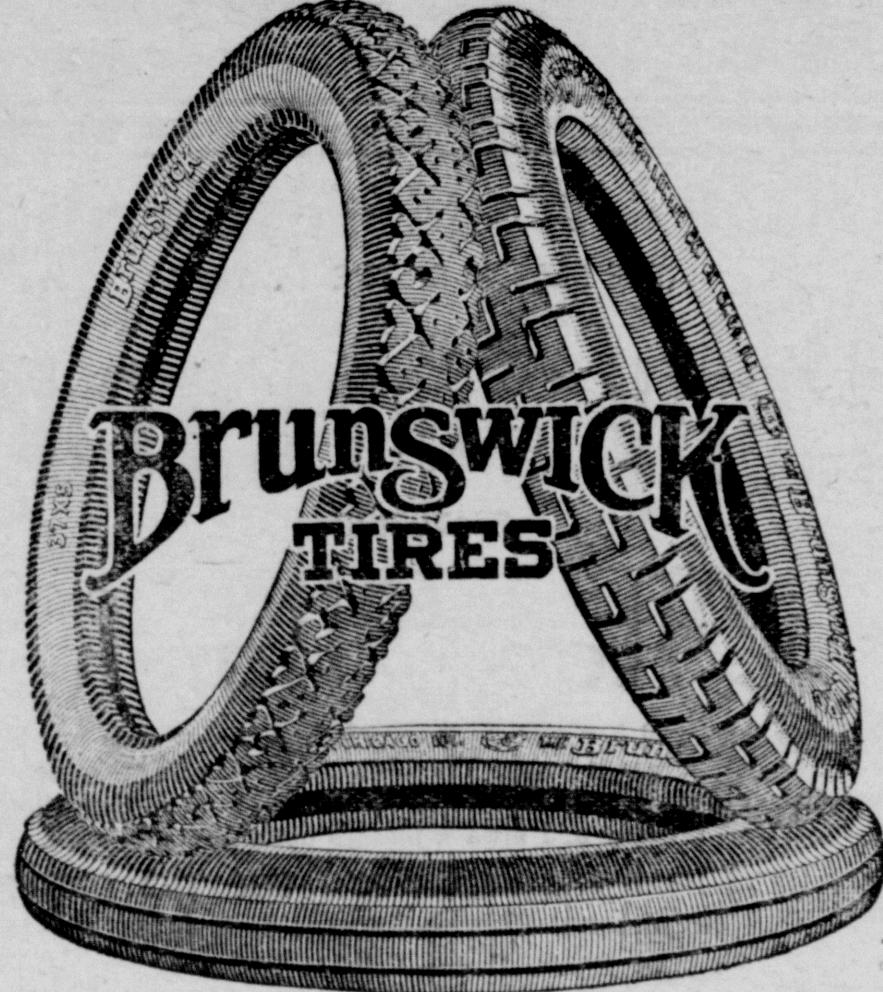

The only secret of a super-tire lies in the principles of the maker. His standards decide the quality. For there are no secrets in the tire industry.

What you get depends on what is behind the name on your tire. Brunswick, as you know, means a very old concern, jealous of its good name. Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has been famous the world over for the quality of its products.

The Brunswick Tire is all that you expect—and more. Your first one will be a revelation. You'll agree that you've never known a better. And you'll tell your friends. So spreads the news among motorists. The Brunswick is the most welcome tire that ever came to market.

Try one Brunswick Tire. Learn how good a tire can be built. And remember, it costs no more than like-type tires.

Concluding this missive, George tossed it abruptly from him so one sheet fell upon his bed and the others upon the floor; and at the faint noise of their falling Isabel came, and, kneeling, began to gather them up.

"Did you read it, dear?"

George's face was pale no longer, but pink with fury. "Yes, I did."

"All of it?" she asked gently, as she rose.

"Certainly!"

She did not look at him, but kept her eyes downcast upon the letter in her hands, tremulously rearranging the sheets in order as she spoke—and though she smiled, her smile was as tremulous as her hands. Nervousness and an irresistible timidity possessed her. "I—I wanted to say, George," she faltered. "I felt that if—if some day it should happen—I mean, if you came to feel differently about it, and Eugene and I—that is if we found that it seemed the most sensible thing to do—I was afraid you might think it would be a little queer about—Lucy. I mean if—if she were your step-sister. Of course, she'd not be even legally related to you, and if you—if you cared for her—"

Thus far she got stumblingly with what she wanted to say, while George watched her with a gaze that grew harder and hotter; but here he cut her off. "I have already given up all idea of Lucy," he said. "Naturally, I couldn't have treated her father as I deliberately did treat him—I could hardly have done that and expected his father ever to speak to me again."

Isabel gave a quick cry of compassion, but he allowed her no opportunity to speak. "You needn't think I'm making any particular sacrifice," he said sharply, "though I would, quickly enough, if I thought it necessary in a matter of honor like this. I was interested in her, and I could even say I did care for her; but she proved pretty satisfactorily that she cared little enough about me! The truth is, we're not congenial and we'd found that much out, at least, before she left. We should never have been happy; she was 'superior' all the time, and critical of me—not very pleasant, that! I don't think she has the very deepest nature in the world, and—"

But Isabel put her hand timidly on his arm. "George, dear, this is only a quarrel; all young people have them before they get adjusted, and you mustn't let—"

"If you please!" he said emphatically, moving back from her. "This isn't that kind. It's all over, and I don't care to speak of it again. It's settled. Don't you understand?"

"But, dear—"

"No, I want to talk to you about this letter of her father's."

"Yes, dear, that's why—"

"It's simply the most offensive piece of writing that I've ever held in my hands!"

She stepped back from him, startled. "But, dear, I thought—"

"I can't understand your even showing me such a thing!" he cried. "How did you happen to bring it to me?"

"Your uncle thought I'd better. He thought it was the simplest thing to do, and he said that he'd suggested it to Eugene, and Eugene had agreed. They thought—"

"Yes!" George said bitterly. "I should like to hear what they thought!"

"They thought it would be the most straightforward thing."

George drew a long breath. "Well, what do you think, mother?"

"I thought it would be the simplest and most straightforward thing; I thought they were right."

"Very well! We'll agree it was simple and straightforward. Now, what do you think of that letter itself?"

She hesitated, looking away. "I—of course I don't agree with him in the way he speaks of you, dear—except about the angel! I don't agree with some of the things he implies. You've always been unsocial—nobody knows that better than your mother."

"And yet," George broke in, "you see what he implies about me. Don't you think, really, that this was a pretty insulting letter for that man to be asking you to hand your son?"

"Oh, no!" she cried. "You see how fair he means to be, and he didn't ask for me to give it to you. It was brother George who—"

"Never mind that, now! You say he tries to be fair and yet do you suppose it ever occurs to him that I'm doing my simple duty? That I'm doing what my father would do if he were alive? That I'm doing what my father would ask me to do if he could speak from his grave out yonder? Do you suppose it ever occurs to that man for one minute that I'm protecting my mother?" George raised his voice advancing upon the helpless lady fiercely; and she could only bend her head before him. "He talks about my 'Will'—how it must be beaten down; yes, and he asks my mother to do that little thing to please him! What for? Why does he want me 'beaten' by my mother? Because I'm trying to protect her name! He's got my mother's name bandied up and down the streets of this town till I can't step in those streets without wondering what every soul I meet is thinking of me and of my family, and now he wants you to marry him so that every gossip in town will say 'There! What did I tell you? I guess that proves it's true!' You can't get away from it; that's exactly what they'd say, and this man pretends he cares for you, and yet asks you to marry him and give them the right to say it. He says he and you don't care what they say, but I know better! He may not care—probably he's that kind—but you do. There never was an Amberson yet that would let the Amberson name go trailing in the dust like that! It's the proudest name in this town, and it's going to stay the proudest; and I tell you that's the deepest thing in my nature—not that I'd expect Eugene Morgan to understand—the very deepest thing in my nature is to protect that name and to fight for it to the last breath when danger threatens it as it does now—through my mother!" He turned from her striding up and down and tossing his arms about in a tumult of gesture. "I can't believe it of you that you'd think of such a sacrifice! That's what it would be—sacrifice! When he talks about your unselfishness toward me he's right—you have been unselfish and you have been a perfect mother. But what about him? Is it unselfish of him to want you to throw away your good name just to please him? That's all he asks of you—and to quit being my mother! Do you think I can believe you really care for him? I don't! You are my mother and you're an Amberson—and I believe you're too proud! You're too proud to care for a man who could write such a letter as that!"

He stopped, faced her, and spoke with more self-control: "Well, what are you going to do about it, mother?"

George was right about his mother's being proud. And even when she laughed with a negro gardener, or even those few times in her life when people saw her weep, Isabel had a proud look—something that was independent and graceful and strong. But she did not have it now: She leaned against the wall, beside his dressing table, and seemed beset with humility and with weakness. Her head drooped.

But she did not have it now: She leaned against the wall, beside his dressing table, and seemed beset with humility and with weakness. Her head drooped.

"What answer are you going to make to such a letter?" George demanded, like a judge on the bench.

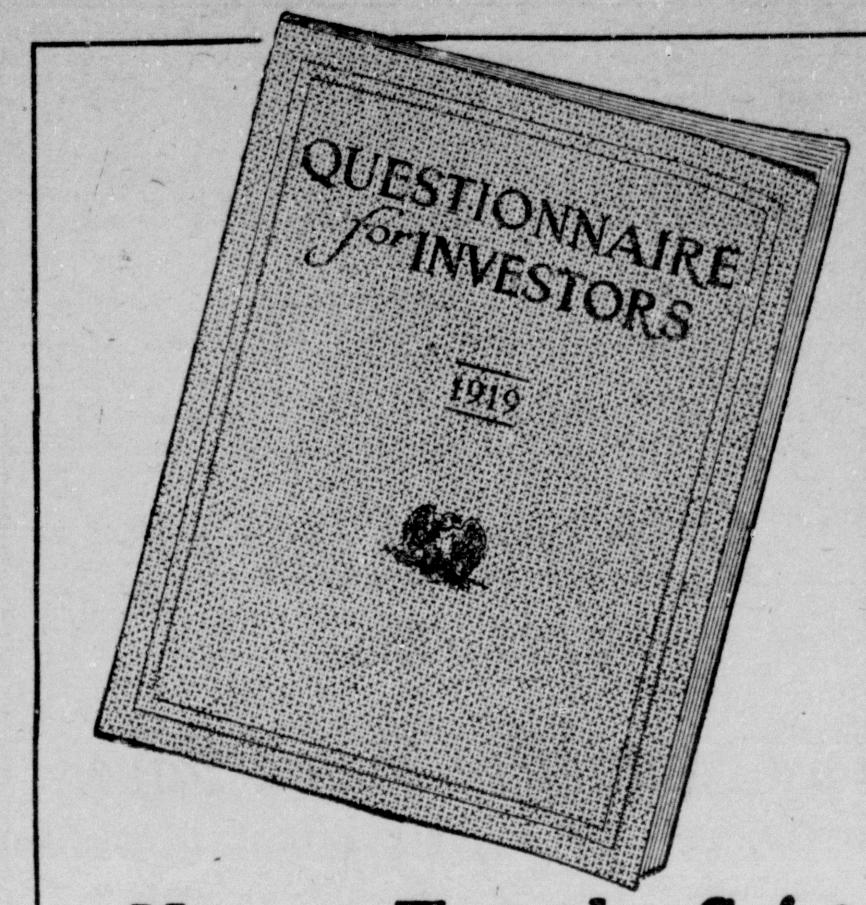

"I—I don't quite know, dear," she murmured.

"'You don't?'" he cried. "You—"

"Wait," she begged him. "I'm so confused."

"I want to know what you're going to write him. Do you think if you did what he wants you to I could bear to stay another day in this town, mother? Do you think I could ever bear even to see you again if you married him? I'd want to, but you surely know I just—couldn't!"

She made a futile gesture, and seemed to breathe with difficulty. "I—I wasn't—quite sure," she faltered, "about—about it's being wise for us to be married—even before knowing how you feel about it. I wasn't even sure it was quite fair to—Eugene. I have—I seem to have that family trouble—like father's—that I spoke to you about once." She managed a deprecating little dry laugh. "Not that it amounts to much, but I wasn't at all sure that it would be fair to him. Marrying doesn't mean so much, after all—not at my age. It's enough to know that—that people think of you—and to see them. I thought we were all—oh, pretty happy the way things were, and I don't think it would mean giving up a great deal for him

"Mother!" George's voice was loud and stern. "Do you think you could go one seeing him after this?"

She had been talking helplessly enough before; her tone was little more broken now. "Not—not even see him?"

"How could you?" George cried. "Mother, it seems to me that if he ever set foot in this house again—"
